

Some time back I received an e-mail from Greg Norman, of the type many agents get from investors. I decided to answer this one by asking him several questions up front, which he did promptly and to my satisfaction. I did this as my previous experience with investors was not very positive, they promise much, but deliver little. In Greg's case, however I was pleasantly surprised. He has turned out to be a man of his word, professional, knowledgeable and easy to work with.

If you are an agent and know of properties that are of type that investors are looking for, I would not hesitate to give Greg a call. He keeps his word, is honest and fair as well as being responsive in a timely manner. You will find he is all I have said and more.
